From the steps of the State Capitol Building is afforded an unsurpassed, inspirational view of Salt Lake Valley which is completely surrounded by snow-capped mountains.

The Wasatch Mountains are on the left, rearing their peaks thousands of feet into the clear blue sky.

"Wasatch" is an Indian name meaning high mountains with passes.

Mormon Battalion Monument erected to commemorate the important contribution made to the early settlement and development of the State of Utah and the Western portion of the country by the Mormon Battalion.
